P. Glorieux, Répertoire des maîtres en théologie de Paris au XIII<sup>e</sup> siècle (1933-4), Nr. 305bk & 311t. Says that it is probably by Guillaume de Fourmenterie.

R. Sharpe, A Handlist of the Latin Writers of Great Britain & Ireland before 1540, (1997), p.770. considers the attribution “opus fratris Gwillelmi de la Furmenterie Anglici quondam de ordine fraturm minorum” in the colophon of BL Royal 8.C.XVI to be spurious: “its circulation argues strongly against its being the work of an obscure English friar”. Nothing further in the supplement to Sharpe's Handlist, either on William of Furmenterie or William of Gloucester.
